Veteran Solon Says Sniping Is 'Expected'

This Is Election Year, He Says, And You Can't Do Much To Stop Talk

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. George (D-Ga.) said today the battle royal between Republicans and Democrats over GOP charges of past Communist-coddling may not, after all, have much lasting effect.

"This is a political year and you've got to expect things like that," the veteran Georgia Democrat said. And with congressional elections coming this year, he said, he doesn't think anything much can be done to stop the infighting.

Republican speakers, with some notable exceptions, loaded their oratorical artillery for the big Lincoln Day barrage yesterday with much the same sort of denunciation that had already brought President Eisenhower this week to advise his fellow party members against extreme partisan utterances.

Among the speakers who conspicuously tempered their criticism yesterday were members of the President's official family and Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.), chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee.

FERGUSON at the last minute discarded a prepared speech in which he charged that "New Dealers and Fair Dealers and Left Wingers traded the lifeblood of American youth for a wartime economy and promoted phony prosperity."

Instead, at a Republican dinner in Brooklyn, Ferguson extolled the accomplishments of the Republican party since 1860.

Some other congressional Republicans were less restrained. Sen. Jenner (R-Ind.) accused "Fair Dealers" of putting "every possible handicap" in the way of troops in Korea.

From various speakers came phrases like "disgraceful era of" (Continued on Page Two)

Big 4 Aides To Try New Austria Talk

BERLIN (AP)—The Big Four foreign ministers decided on another discussion of Austria's independence today despite a deadlock over Soviet conditions which blasted their last chance for a European settlement.

Adamant before pleas from the West, Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov declared yesterday Russian troops will remain in Austria until a German peace treaty is written. To this new condition, he added an old one—the troublesome Trieste problem also must be solved first.

Western delegations indicated clearly the conditions could not be accepted. They now see no chance for completion of the German peace treaty for years. And a Yugoslav-Italian squabble blocks efforts of Britain and the United States to pull their troops from Trieste, the strategic free territory at the head of the Adriatic.

Secretary of State Dulles denounced the Russian tactics as shabby. He said the Molotov proposal "gives me a cold chill."

Austrian Foreign Minister Leopold Figl, who had pleaded at the ministers' table for his country's freedom, was glum. Within Austria a nation of seven million still waiting for redemption of the Big Four's wartime pledge to restore her sovereignty, the reaction was deep gloom. Hitlerian and Allied occupations have stretched out 16 years.

In effect, Russia has thrown up a roadblock to Austria's independence that may stand for years.

Pope To Speak

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII will speak by radio tomorrow at 1:15 p. m. EST to the world's sick. The announcement was the firmest sign that the 77-year-old head of the Roman Catholic church definitely is recovering from a gastric ailment.

Bob White And Friend, Motor, Happy In New Home After 3 Lean Months

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP)—Bob White and his friend, Motor—both of them—slept warm and comfortable in their new home last night.

Bob, 16, almost starved to death to stay here with Motor when the family moved some 400 miles west to Andrews, Tex., last October.

There was just no way for Bob's mother and stepfather to take the dog with them. Andrews is a bit off the beaten path out north of Lubbock and transportation, even for people, is difficult. It's almost impossible for a black cocker spaniel with soulful brown eyes.

So when the family moved to more promising fields Bob decided to stay with Motor, whose tail moves in circles, just like a motor.

Bob and his friend made their home on the banks of the Wichita River. They took donations of food from warm-hearted river folk and roamed the river banks for driftwood to heat their shack.

Finally, his clothing badly worn and food becoming scarcer, Bob dropped out of high school. But he and Motor, that tail still wagging, were seen along the river—trying to fish and hunting driftwood or whatever the little river would give up.

Absence from school brought the "visiting teacher" looking around. He was Mike Locascio, an Optimist Club member, who took more than a truant officer's interest in the boy and his dog.

Mike made arrangements with juvenile authorities to send Bob on west to his family. But the boy was heart-broken when Jan.

28 he was placed on an Andrews-bound bus without Motor.

The Optimist Club wasn't through however. Curtis Cook, president of the club, went to work.

Yesterday, after two railroads had combined facilities to get Motor to Odessa, Tex., he was placed in a truck owned by Glen Clark, president of the Odessa Optimists.

Clark called last night to say that Motor, that short, black tail spinning furiously, had been reunited with Bob, still scrawny and spindly from his three-month stay on the river bank.

"Oh boy," said the boy as Motor yelped in joyous recognition.

Soviet Objective: Show West Split

SEOUL (AP)—Informed sources in Korea, who have negotiated with the Communists, said today Russia stands a good chance to achieve one of its major objectives (exposing a split in Western policy towards Red China) if a major power conference is held.

The question of convening a Far Eastern conference is under discussion among the Big Four foreign ministers now meeting in Berlin. The news that Russia's V. M. Molotov will propose an assembly including representatives of Asian nations came as no surprise here.

A top authority, who declined to be identified, said such a move was anticipated when efforts to arrange a political settlement on Korea failed.

"We long ago advised Washington that the Communists have no intention of concluding a political agreement on Korea," he said.

"What they really want is a Far Eastern conference in which those countries with ideas of neutralism will be represented."

Both India and Indonesia are considered to be in that category. Burma also would lean toward the "neutral" side.

OBSERVERS see these three main Russian objectives:

1. To bring into the open known differences among the Western democracies, especially on a joint policy toward Red China.

2. To delay restoration of Japan's strength so it will be a weak point in the pattern of power in the Far East.

3. To revive charges that the Western nations maintain their alleged desire to restore the "colonial system" in the Far East.

Of the three, the first is believed to hold the best chance of success for the Russians.

The United States does not see eye to eye with Britain or France on policy toward Red China. Britain originally recognized the Communist government in Peking.

British official opinion as expressed in London recently favors acknowledging "the fact that the present government is in power and is likely to stay in power. Therefore the best thing to do is to admit the fact and deal with it accordingly."

Also, trade considerations interest the British more than they do the Americans or French.

Regarding Japanese rearmament, informed opinion here is that the Soviets will try hard to halt it.

New Witness In Death Trial Being Hinted

MANSFIELD (AP)—The possibility that a witness was in a burning building in Mansfield where Mrs. Leah Sternbaum met death was suggested yesterday by the attorney defending Max Sternbaum at his trial on first degree murder charges.

The attorney, Paul M. Herbert, asked Paul Martin, Mansfield police identification chief:

"Didn't you ascertain there was a man on the second floor of that building? Didn't you see him come down attired in night apparel?"

"No, I did not," Martin replied. The state claims Sternbaum, 35, killed his 31-year-old wife with a 14-inch wrench in the office of a supermarket chain, of which Sternbaum is an executive, on Dec. 4, 1952. The state maintains Sternbaum was unhappy in his marriage and couldn't get a divorce, and had "a serious love affair" with another woman. The state claims Sternbaum set fire to the office after killing his wife in an attempt to destroy evidence.

Sternbaum claims he and his wife were attacked by robbers, who beat them and set fire to the office. He says he came to and crawled out of the building, but was unable to save his wife.

The building in which Mrs. Sternbaum was killed is a two-story converted residence, with three rooms on each floor. The ground floor was occupied by the supermarket offices. The upper rooms were used as living quarters.

Annual Bob Bowsher Memorial Trophy Race Starts In Monday Play

Character-revealing sportsmanship, brilliant cooperation, inspiring attitude toward the game, and sparkling team-play will be the night watchwords as the big 1954 Pickaway County senior basketball tournament gets off to a flying start Monday evening in the Fairgrounds Coliseum.

The reason for the special stress upon these four outstanding criteria for athletes is the fact that they will receive vital consideration in the annual award of the Bob Bowsher Memorial Trophy.

The race for the Memorial Trophy, one of the most coveted of all county basketball honors, will start the minute the Monroe Indians take the Coliseum field at 7 p. m. Monday to meet the Darby Trojans in the curtain-raiser of the big 1954 senior Pickaway County League Tournament.

The Bowsher Trophy was first established here in 1948 in honor of Bob Bowsher, first of the county's war dead heroes of World War II to be returned to their native soil or burial.

BOWSHER WAS a husky, extremely likeable young man who carried the qualities of outstanding competitor in the field of sports onto the battlefield with him.

In 1948 and each year since, the Trophy has gone to the outstanding player in county tournament competition.

In the voting by coaches to determine the 1954 recipient of the high laurels, only tournament play is reckoned.

In an entirely different type of judging, the coaches, during or shortly after the tournament, will make All-County team selections, where the outstanding players of the county league season are selected. The five players receiving the largest number of votes will be the first All-County team, and the next five will be the second team.

Bob Bowsher, who was christened Robert Allen Bowsher, was an excellent athlete in Circleville High School.

HE ENTERED college and made a good mark for himself there. He entered the service of his country and there also performed magnificently.

As in the field of sports, Bowsher gave the job of war all he had, and the war cost him his life. He now lies buried in Circleville's Forest Cemetery, a hero of World War II.

And at present, the annual Bob Bowsher Trophy is graced by outstanding names in Pickaway County High School basketball history. They are:

JIM PICKLESIMER of Williamsport, winner of the award the first

Italian Police Chisel Name Off Protestant Church Wall

ROME (AP)—Italian police descended today upon Rome's Church of Christ, chiseled its name off a wall and took a news cameraman of the Associated Press into custody for photographing them.

They vainly ordered an AP correspondent away from the scene.

The word "Christ" in six-inch-high letters was the first word removed in this action against the Protestant religious organization, which has American financial backing.

The Roman police struck quickly after worshippers were forced to leave a Church of Christ in Leghorn late last night.

AP Photographer Remo Nassi, an Italian citizen, was seized with his camera and hustled off in a police car despite protests. AP Correspondent Allan Jacks, a U.S. citizen, was ordered to leave, but refused.

Later Nassi was released without charges and his camera was returned.

The sign was removed on direct orders of the Rome Questura, or police headquarters, which is under the Italian ministry of interior.

THE NEW PREMIER of predominantly Roman Catholic Italy, Mario Scelba, is the minister of the interior as well as government chief.

The chief of the police party declined at first to give his name and identified himself as "Comandante Pinks." This was an obvious jibe at Church of Christ preachers, who in the past frequently have been assailed by Italian critics as leftists. This they have always denied.

Later the police officer apologized and identified himself as Commissario De Rusk, the precinct captain.

In 1950, when the cult's troubles with Italian authorities first began the Italian interior ministry was headed by Scelba. He then criticized the Church of Christ and other Protestant evangelical cults as "aiding communism in Italy."

Just two days ago, the Vatican and the Italian government celebrated the 25th anniversary of the lateran pacts. The pacts establish the Roman Catholic religion as the Italian state religion.

The new republican constitution says "all religious confessions are equal before the law."

Coming H-Bomb Test Action Seen

HONOLULU (AP)—Preparations for the coming hydrogen bomb test series in the Pacific are nearing a climax, according to indications in this staging area.

The tests, which will include the first trial of an actual combat-designed hydrogen bomb, are expected in two or three weeks.

Alvin Graves, director of the 1954 tests at the Marshall Islands Atomic Proving Grounds, passed through Honolulu two weeks ago and is presumably in the test area.

Maj. Gen. Percy W. Clarkson, commanding officer of Atomic Task Force Seven, left Honolulu a month ago, presumably for the Marshall Islands, and returned last week. Two days later he left again, in the same direction.

McCormick Heir Dies At Age 87

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Anita McCormick Blaine, the only daughter of the late Cyrus Hall McCormick, inventor of the reaping machine, and a noted philanthropist died last night. She was 87.

Mrs. Blaine, who considered it her task to "distribute the money where it will do the most good," gave $1 million in 1946 to found a new global organization known as the Foundation for World Government.

Her contributions to education included $3 million to the Francis Parker School and $2 million to the University of Chicago school of education which she helped develop.

U.S. Diplomats Believe Rhee Is 'Bluffing'

French Cold To Idea Of ROK Troops Helping In Indochina War

WASHINGTON (AP)—American diplomats were understood today to view South Korean President Syngman Rhee's threat to march against North Korea as a bluff, just what he said it wasn't intended to be.

They also were known to hold out slight hope for the government's offer of troops for Indochina.

A French Embassy spokesman said yesterday his government, which still has not received the offer officially, would reject the proffered South Korean division for fear its involvement might bring Red Chinese intervention into the Indochinese War.

The French commissioner general for Indochina said in Bangkok today that his country still is ready to negotiate a settlement with the insurgent Vietminh. Maurice Dejean, the commissioner, said military help from China is prolonging the conflict.

DEJEAN SAID France is trying to prevent "another Korea" and he voiced confidence that the Vietminh rebels would be repelled from the Laotian capital of Luang Prabang. Enemy elements, he said, are within 12½ miles of that city.

The Indochina problem caused some political repercussions in France, where Assemblyman Pierre Mendes-France charged last night in a speech in Vernon that Foreign Minister George Bidault is begging Mao Tse-tung, the Red Chinese leader, to stop backing the Vietminh.

Mendes-France demanded that France negotiate a truce directly with Ho Chi Minh, the Vietminh chief.

In Paris, French officials and those of the invaded kingdom of Laos said there is no foundation for reports that the Laotian government had asked for the ROK troops.

In this connection, the South Korean defense minister, Sohn Won Il, said in Seoul his nation is prepared to send land, sea and air forces to help the French. He said they would be volunteers.

Senate Panel Gets List Of Coffee Deals

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Beall (R-Md.) said today one New York coffee broker has supplied investigating senators with a complete list of all trades in coffee futures contracts of recent months.

Beall is chairman of a Senate banking subcommittee looking into the jump in coffee prices. He said the group will wait "a week or ten days" to enable other coffee brokers to supply similar lists on a voluntary basis. He has said subpoenas will be used if necessary to get the information.

The next public testimony, Beall said, will be by large buyers of coffee such as chain stores and other retailers.

Gustavo Lobo Jr., president of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, has urged all members to supply lists of all transactions and lists of customers.

He said member firms are "anxious to have the public know the facts and to disprove some of the erroneous statements."

Senators agreed not to publish names of customers and their trading in coffee unless they discover "something out of line."

Beall said he would not make public at this time the name of the first broker to cooperate.

This week the Senate approved a bill that would impose government regulation and supervision of all coffee futures trading by the Commodity Exchange Administration, an agency of the Agriculture Department.

House members plan committee consideration of this bill during the coming week.

Bullet Expert Dies

NZW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Merton A. Robinson, 78, dean of American ballistics whose hobby was the scientific identification of bullets, died yesterday.

Spark Believed Cause Of Fire At Maizor Mill

Fire Chief Talmer Wise disclosed Friday night that the disastrous Maizor mill fire here may have been started by a spark in the machinery used to grind corn cobs.

The firm used large shipments of ground corn cobs to produce a metal-polishing agent.

Wise said he was told fires at the mill have been detected several times in the past when sparks were touched off by the grinding machinery. This would happen, he explained, when a nail, bolt or some other metallic piece found its way into the gears used to crush the cobs.

In previous instances, the chief added, the fires have been spotted almost as soon as they started and hence caused no damage. Thursday night's fire, however, may have started just at a time when it was able to gain headway before the blaze was noticed, the chief theorized.

Columbus Youth Arrested After He Wrecks Auto

A 19-year-old Columbus youth was in the Pickaway County Jail Saturday, accused of drink driving after wrecking his car about three miles north of Circleville at 7:45 p. m. Friday on Route 23.

He is listed by Deputy Sheriff Carl Radcliff as Roscoe Herdman, who was taken to jail after having been treated in Berger hospital for head and body cuts and bruises.

Radcliff said Herdman told him he didn't remember anything that happened from the time he left his home in Columbus yesterday evening until he found himself in the overturned automobile in a field north of the city.

The car was almost totally demolished as it hurtled over a ditch, through a fence and landed on the top, Radcliff said.

Hereford Group Membership Listed

Bowling Hereford Farms, Circleville, was named Saturday to membership in the American Hereford Association, the world's largest purebred registry organization, with headquarters in Kansas City, Mo.

One hundred fifty-three Hereford breeders were placed on the Association's official roster during January to boost the total membership to an all-time high of 23,530 live members and 70,000 active accounts. Members represent every state in the nation.

The Hereford Association last year recorded a new world's record of 560,794 purebred calves, an increase of 12,376 over the record established during the previous fiscal year. Hereford calves registered last year were more than two and a half times the total registrations of other major beef breeds combined.

The body of a typical adult man contains slightly more than five quarts of blood.

Because of its cell structure, wood absorbs and deadens sound.

Convinced Faith Is Sermon Theme For First EUB

"Morning Prelude," an organ selection by Lucille Kirkwood, will introduce unified worship in the First Evangelical United Brethren Church, Sunday at 9:30 a. m. Other organ numbers by Miss Kirkwood are "God of Love" and "Alla Marcia."

The congregation will sing the hymns, "Jesus is All the World to Me" and "Sweeter as the Years Go By."

The church choir will offer the anthem, "Unto Thee Will I Call."

The Rev. Carl L. Wilson has selected the sermon topic, "Convinced Christians" from a text in II Timothy 1:12. "For I know whom I have believed."

Of this text, the Rev. Mr. Wilson said:

"The word 'Convinced' certainly implies a process of reasoning which culminates in 'conviction' beyond all doubt. The convinced Christian has accepted Christ and Christian truth with the whole mind, heart and will."

"The convinced Christian is one who is 'very sure of God.' This confidence goes beyond the intellectual acceptance of God's existence and providential government of his creatures. It envelops the whole being and permeates it through and through with the spirit of Christ."

"St. Paul had such an experience and he was a convinced Christian. His conversion gave him a confidence which would not be shaken. Man does not reach the center of God's blessing in the Gospel until he not only knows about God and Christ, but has 'known Him.' All that one knows about a person is inadequate in comparison with knowing that person. Knowing about a person may be helpful; but it falls short of intimacy, communion, guidance and love."

"There is a guide on the way of becoming 'Convinced' Christians. Have we met Jesus on the road of life? Have we seen Him on the shameful cross? Have we listened to the risen Christ as He draws near to us in our sin, our doubt, our despondency? Have we given ourselves, our all of life into His keeping? Have we had the glorious experience of serving under Him and with Him in the strenuous campaign against evil in our own hearts and in the world?"

"Have we entered into a fellowship of prayer and communion with Him? If so, we may humbly echo the words of the great Apostle Paul, 'I know Him and am absolutely convinced that He is able to guard that which I have committed unto Him against that day.'"

The Church School Bible lesson, "Can This Be The Christ?" follows the worship with classes meeting in rooms for the study.

Children under 12 years meet in the Service Center at 9:30 a. m. for the Church School Bible Study and at 10:30 a. m. in the Junior Church with Mrs. Ezra Pritchard and Mrs. Howard Conley in charge.

Ministerial Group To Participate In New Chaplaincy

The ministry and lay members of 10 local Protestant churches will participate in a newly organized chaplaincy program beginning in Circleville on Feb. 14.

This plan, sponsored by the local ministerial association, will send a different minister to each of the four local rest homes each Sunday afternoon.

In the homes, personal visitation will be done, and in some instances public services of worship will be regularly conducted. No regularly scheduled worship services have been held in most of the local rest homes for many months.

In addition to spiritual guidance and help to Circleville's rest home residents, the ministerium will begin immediately to offer chaplaincy service to Berger Hospital and the county jail. A different minister will be assigned to each of these two institutions each month. He will be subject to call at any time that a minister is needed at either place.

'What Is Faith?' Is Sermon Topic For Methodists

"What Is Faith?" is the sermon topic which the Rev. Robert B. Weaver has chosen for the worship service at the First Methodist Church Sunday morning at 10:30.

In the development of the sermon, the Rev. Weaver will make a distinction between hope and Christian faith. He will discuss the different types of faith and their relationship to that which people can see and feel.

A class of new members will be received into the fellowship of the church at the close of the morning service.

The Senior choir under the direction of Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh will present the anthem "The Lord Is Exalted." Mrs. Ervin Leist has chosen "Christians Awake, A Voice Is Calling," "As The Dew, from Heaven Distilling," and "The Lord Is My Song" as the organ selections for the service.

Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh will speak to both the Junior and the Senior High Methodist Youth Fellowship groups Sunday evening at the six o'clock hour on the subject: "Music In Our Worship Services." In the development of her talk Mrs. Defenbaugh will explain how music is selected for Sunday morning services and for special occasions.

Two preparatory classes for membership will begin Sunday. A class for those who have become eleven and a half to the thirteenth birthday will be held at the regular Sunday morning Sunday School hour in the Minister's Study. For those who have reached their teens the class will be held at 4:30 in the afternoon.

Members of Boy Scout Troop No. 52 will meet at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday for the regular meeting.

The Youth Choir of the Methodist Church will meet at 3:30 p. m. Wednesday in the church parlors for regular practice with Mrs. Vaden Couch.

Members of the youth group and the adults who were associated with the Lancaster Camp Ground in Lancaster have been invited to the Williamsport Methodist Church for a special service with Curt Davis. Mrs. Davis has been the organist at the Camp Ground for several years and has broadcasted regularly each summer over the Lancaster radio station.

The Senior Choir of the Methodist Church will meet Thursday at 7:30 p. m. for regular practice with Mrs. Defenbaugh.

Members of the Board of the Woman Society of Christian Service will meet Thursday at 8 p. m. in the church basement.

Two Circles of the Woman Society of Christian Service of the Methodist Church will meet this Wednesday at 8 p. m.—Circle 3 in the Church Parlors and Circle 5 with Mrs. Glen Jines, 129 Park St.

Bible Words To Live By

My favorite Bible Verse is:

PSALM 23:1—"The Lord is my shepherd, I shall not want."

In all its simplicity this word in the Bible includes everything that my soul craves and for which my heart cries out.

It rates me as a poor, helpless and defenseless sheep, which I truly am, a lost creature for time and eternity, were it not for my good shepherd.

It includes God's providential care which satisfies all my wants. It includes Jesus Christ my Saviour. For he said, "I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd lays down his life for the sheep." So here is God's whole plan of salvation, eternal life through the death of Christ for sinners.

It is an expression of the faith of my heart, by the grace of the Holy Spirit, and "whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life." Therefore I trust with confidence. I have security, boldness, a living hope.

The Lord is my shepherd. When, from the heart I can say this, then I know that there will also be fulfilled on me the Word of God that "The God of peace, who brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, the great shepherd of the sheep by the blood of the eternal covenant, will equip me with everything good that I may do his will, working in me that which is pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ; to whom be glory forever and ever."

Services Schedule Will Continue At Trinity Lutheran

In keeping with the new schedule of worship services begun last week in Trinity Church, two morning services will be held again this Sunday. The early morning service will begin at 8:30 and will be followed immediately by the Sunday School Hour at 9:30. The late morning service will begin at 10:45.

These two services will be conducted by the Rev. George L. Troutman this week. The theme for his meditation will be, "Jephthah, The Unfortunate Boy Makes Good." The text for this meditation will be Judges 10:35.

Music for the early service will be provided by the Senior choir. At the late service the Children's Choir will sing the anthem, "An Evening Prayer." This anthem has special meaning for the children since they have memorized it and use it daily at home.

Church Of Christ Lesson Subject Is '2-Mile Service'

The sermon subject planned for the church of Christ Sunday, meeting at 159 E. Main St. is, "Two-Mile Service." Text for this lesson is taken from Jesus' statement in the sermon on the mount: "And whosoever shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him twain" (Mt. 5:41).

Evangelist Charles Cochran says of the lesson:

"The Lord expects us to render to him a 'two-mile' service. Many will travel the one mile, but fail on the second. This principle is demonstrated in the life of Lot's wife, who left the doomed cities of Sodom and Gomorrah at the command of the Lord, but failed the 'second-mile' when she turned and looked back and was turned into a pillar of salt (Gen. 19; Luk. 17:32). "King Saul exemplifies one who had a successful beginning, but failed on the 'second-mile' of his journey. God instructed him through Samuel the prophet, to go and destroy the Amalekites, which he did. Yet, he kept the king alive, and the best of their sheep and oxen he preserved. This was in direct disobedience to the will of the Lord, and consequently, he was rejected from being king over Israel (I Sam. 15)."

"Today many fail on the 'second mile' of the journey. Many will live a good moral life, but in thinking this is all there is to the salvation of their souls will fail to obey the gospel of Christ, which also is essential (2 Thess. 1:7-9). Some will obey the primary principles of the gospel, but fail in living the Christian life (Rev. 2:10). A man may do very well in providing for the physical needs of his family and completely ignore and neglect the spiritual side, which is more important. We must run all the race in order to receive the promised crown at the end thereof."

Hour this week, the Rev. Mr. Troutman will conduct the second in a series of adult instruction classes which meet in the church auditorium. Anyone interested in knowing more about the Lutheran Church or in reviewing its teachings is urged to attend.

At 2 p. m. Sunday there will be a combined worship service and Sunday School in Christ Church, Lick Run. This service will be conducted by Intern Donald Kearns.

At 4 p. m. Sunday the Senior Luther League will meet in the Parish House where its members will have a special Valentine's Day program. All of the young people in the 10th grade and above are invited to attend.

Bexley Hall Choir To Sing Services At St. Philip's Here

The choir composed of students from Bexley Hall, divinity school of Kenyon College, Gambier, will visit St. Philip's Church Sunday at 4 p. m. for the singing of the service of Evensong and other selections. The Bexley Hall is composed of 25 men from all activities of the church, under the direction of Dr. Paul Schwartz, professor of church music at the seminary. Joseph M. Eldridge, a seminarian from the Diocese of Tennessee, will be the organist.

Settings to be sung are Gregorian plainsong, among some of the most ancient styles of music in the Christian church. Plainsong music was used in the church until the ninth century when the "polyphonic" type, most commonly used today, began to make its appearance.

Purpose of the Bexley Hall choir, which will be on tour this year visiting various churches, is to acquaint people with the work being done at Bexley Hall in the way of training men for the ministry. Secondly, to show people the way in which church music should be placed, demonstrating the important place music has in church services.

As a result of the parish offerings received last year while the choir was on tour, Bexley Hall was able to provide a scholarship for a

Material Value Of Religion To Be Told Sunday

"The Material Value Of Religion," is the theme of the sermon for the 10:30 worship service at the Presbyterian Church Sunday morning. If ever mankind is to thoroughly enjoy the comforts of calm and peaceful living—the luxury of confidence and security which the present order of things does not guarantee, two essential conditions must be met by every man: 1) First we need to learn what are the principles which Almighty God has laid down for our mutual living; 2) And second, we must master the art of living by those principles. In proportion as we succeed, we will have the answer to the prayer of the world today: "Thy kingdom come on Earth as it now is in Heaven."

In other words, in whatever business we are engaged, our success is measured by the extent to which we take God into that business with us, whether it is the business of preaching, or teaching, or learning; whether buying or selling, or producing in any other vocation.

In developing the sermon, the Rev. Donald Mitchell will clarify these principles as they are seen in the parable which Jesus spoke, in Matthew 21:33-46. The choir will sing the anthem, "O Taste and See How Gracious the Lord Is." Mrs. Clark will direct. They will also lead the congregation in singing the hymns, "Praise The Lord Ye Heavens Adore Him," "The Light Of God," "Lord Speak—That I May Speak." At the organ, Mrs. Theodore L. Huston will play, "Gloria," "Theme from Concerto," "O, Praise the Lord."

A church bulletin with valentine motif, featuring the Dorothy Love Ohio Presbyterian Home at Sidney, Ohio, the Youngstown Home, and a proposed third unit in Cincinnati, will be used in the worship service.

An hour of Bible study beginning at 9:30, precedes the worship, the school being superintended by Mr. Ed Grigg. All teachers and substitute teachers, parents and officers have invited Dr. Harry Roach, Ohio Synods field director of Christian Education, to address them and instruct them in the use of the Faith and Life teaching aids, which coordinate the home training with the Sunday school class work, on Wednesday evening, 7:30, at the church.

In the afternoon at 2 o'clock, a pre-Easter instruction class is conducted by the pastor, giving a resume of the Bible, an outline of Church History, a review of Christian Beliefs that matter, the six orders of the Church, and the Sacraments of the Church.

In the evening at 6:30 the Couples Club will meet for the annual Sweetheart Supper in the Social Rooms of the Church. Mr. and Mrs. Jim Carr and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Syvers, are presidents and vice-presidents of the group.

student from the Missionary District of Panama Canal Zone this year. An offering will be received during the service this Sunday for the same purpose.

The service and recital is open to the public. A nursery, under the direction of Mrs. William D. Radcliff, will be provided in the parish house for all children under third grade age.

Following the service and recital, the choir of St. Philip's will entertain the Bexley Hall Choir at a dinner in the rectory.

"Can This Be The Christ?"

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—John 7-8.

By Alfred J. Buescher

The Jews' feast of the Tabernacles was at hand, and Jesus' brethren asked Him to go and let His disciples see His miracles. He refused, however, for He knew that His own brethren did not believe in Him.

Later Jesus went to the feast, and people argued with one another, some saying, "He is a good man; others said, Nay, but He deceiveth the people," but no man spoke openly of Him for fear of the Pharisees.

Jesus taught in the temple, and the Pharisees marvelled, saying, "How knoweth this man letters, having never learned?" Some said He hath a devil, others, "He speaketh boldly and they say nothing unto Him."

The Pharisees sent officers to take Jesus, but they returned without Him, and when asked why they had not brought Him, they answered, "Never man spake like this Man."

COMBINED OPERATION
INDUSTRY AND natural science are winding up a memorable combined operation that has been taking place in some of the remote parts of the great Southwest.

Pipeline engineers and construction crews have teamed up with archeologists to the end that the metropolitan areas of California soon will be heated by the natural gas of Texas and Arizona, but not at the expense of destroying physical evidence of America's prehistoric Indians.

For nearly three years, as the 800-mile pipeline inched its way forward, five archeologists preceded the trench-digging machines, scouting for Indian sites and artifacts. They tracked down 350 sites of prehistoric Indians, dating from about the beginning of the Christian era to 500 A. D. Innumerable materials dating back 4,000 years and up through the ages were collected.

The records and relics are to be preserved in museums of New Mexico and Arizona, while several books and other studies on the findings are planned.

Here is an outstanding illustration of the inter-relationship of culture and technology. Both are directed at an improved heritage—past, present and future.

WEALTH WITH BATHROOM
TWO YEARS AGO Mrs. Sylvia Geib of Buffalo, Mo., received an inheritance of $100,000, tax free, from a distant relative she hardly knew existed. Mrs. Geib is 78 years old. Her husband, John, is 84. The good fortune made little difference in their daily lives.

They did leave the farm on which they had resided many years and moved to a small cottage in town where, Mrs. Geib explains, they could have a bath tub. A television set came later. They did not buy an automobile because neither can drive.

The change from modest circumstances to comparative riches meant little to this worthy couple. They gained a bathroom and a television set. They were satisfied to remain in familiar surroundings, with their children and grandchildren still the source of their greatest pleasure.

It has always been the ambition of millions of Americans to gain wealth. They dream of the many things wealth will bring them — retirement, travel, luxuries. But when it comes, as it did to the Geibs, they discover that they can use only one bathroom, a single television set is all they need, and actual benefits are limited.

If Junior, now to be trained in school to help father with his income tax, comes up with answers similar to those the old man arrives at when helping him with his home work, Senior may be kept in after school, too.

These Days

A large element in the American population is self-employed. Grocers, butchers, musicians, writers, lecturers, doctors, lawyers, veterinarians, clergymen, manicurists—the list is long of Americans honorably engaged in numerous services and arts who manage their own affairs on a comparatively small scale.

This country was built by such self-employed citizens. Practically all of our great corporations are the product of their genius and success. Many of them remain small businessmen. Many of them continue to engage in efforts at smaller or larger fees. This, in some countries, is called the petite bourgeoisie, the lower middle-class, the economic and social backbone of any country.

Now such men and women have a partner, the Government of the United States. Naturally, they have to pay income taxes and have to keep books and records just like a large corporation. The cost of such records, by inexperienced people, involves lots of time, which is tough on self-employed people who cannot afford to work only 40 hours a week. There is no living in that. Many have to hire an accountant (also a self-employed person), who charges for his time.

The income tax is squeezing the self-employed person to the wall. But nothing is harder on him than to have a field man from the Internal Revenue Bureau show up two years later to challenge his judgment as to business deductions. The self-employed person, using small capital, often operating his business out of current earnings, needs as much elbow room, if he is to be successful, as a large corporation.

A very distinguished lady, whose name is known to most, very often lectures before large audiences. This is an excruciating business, often requiring many hours of travel. Each engagement is physically and mentally trying. Often it involves pleasant but exhausting social engagements which are essential to the business. (This is also true of concert artists who travel.) The lady arrives at the train very tired but she has a room on the train, a bedroom or a compartment or a drawing room, whichever is available. She requires a room often because she has to do some writing on the train.

Two years later, a field man showed up and questioned her judgment as to the use of drawing rooms, costing extra fares. She asked me about it and I told her that her judgment ought to prevail, that she was as much entitled to keep herself in shape for the next engagement, so that she looked fresh and spoke ably, as a cigarette company was entitled to spend money to advertise its wares.

Some traveling salesmen work on commission, being allowed a drawing account. An important element in their selling ability is a capacity for good-fellowship. That often comes to a considerable expenditure for entertainment.

Larger corporations can absorb these expenditures in their stride. The self-employed take it out of their own income. In their record of deductions, such items stand out like sore thumbs, often seeming large for the volume of business they do, because a fellow figures that if he does not get the account this year, good-fellowship may bring it to him next year. It is as much an investment as buying shares in General Motors. Two years later, the field man shows up and insists on disallowing the entertainment costs. There is a prolonged argument.

Cancer in Young Children Is Very Difficult to Treat

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

FORTY or over has been thought the age for cancer. In fact, the popular idea is that cancer is on the increase because people are living longer.

However, it has been estimated that about ten per cent of the deaths in children every year are caused by cancer.

The younger the child in whom cancer develops, the more dangerous it is. Cancer in children is usually a very difficult disease to treat. It is rapidly progressive.

Areas Affected

Children's tumors occur usually in different locations in contrast to those in adults. The blood and lymph tissues are particularly affected. Leukemia is a fairly prevalent disease. The nervous system, which is an infrequent place for cancer in adults, is a location for tumors in children. Kidney tumors make up as much as twenty per cent of all childhood tumors.

It is believed that certain influences can cause tumors in adults. However, in children, tumors may be due to the fact that it takes a child's cells some time to arrange a normal pattern of development. In the intervening time, any group of cells may run wild before becoming normal adult tissue, and they can give rise to cancer in the child.

Need for Early Detection

In spite of the fact that children's cancers are very serious, they are worth discovering early because many can and often are cured by using surgery, X-ray and radium treatment.

Therefore, it is important that any untoward symptoms should be noted, and the children taken to their physician for a complete and thorough examination.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mrs. C. W.: What is the best method to treat a sprain when it occurs? Is heat or cold better?

Answer: When a sprain first occurs, it is usually best to administer cold applications. It seems that cold diminishes the amount of swelling and bleeding into the tissues. From 24 to 48 hours after the sprain occurs, heat is then best to use.

CHAPTER ONE

"IS ANYTHING wrong, darling?"

"No. Why should anything?"

"You keep looking at me." Stephen came out of his own dressing room to look even more intently at Shelly. "And why shouldn't a man look at his wife?"

In the mirror, her violet eyes smiled at him. "It wasn't exactly a critical look," she analyzed. "You don't like me in pink," she said. "My darling..." He was putting on his shoes. "I like you—in any color!"

Shelly touched the three coral roses which she had tucked into her belt. She stepped back from the mirror to look again at the dress. Deceptively simple—and costly—it was primarily a slender sheath of pink lame. "Your mother will expect us to be dressed up," she said in an anxious tone. "Mother doesn't care what we wear."

"Well, of course, I meant the family as a whole. Her birthday is one of the rituals..." Stephen settled his jacket against his neck.

She smiled at him. "I'm not being captious, darling. Really I'm not. Of course your mother's birthday is important. And of course you want me to look just right."

He came to her and started to put his arm around her, then looked in alarm at her bare shoulders. "Powder?"

"Of course." She smiled at him provocatively, and gingerly he bent toward her, kissed her lips.

Chuckling, he went over to the fireplace and selected a single white blossom from the arrangement in the bisque mapel vases. There was still a shadow in his fine blue eyes. "Perhaps you're having an overdose of family today," he said thoughtfully. "Didn't you play cards at Ruth's this afternoon?"

"No, Stephen," she answered coolly, "I didn't go."

He took a cigarette from the little box on the table, and lit it with the greatest care. She so disliked the occasional times when he tried to force his family to accept the bride of his choice, against their own decision in that matter, that she was relieved when he launched into a mild lecture on the subject of her own behavior.

"Don't misunderstand me, darling," he said in his nice way of never wanting to hurt anyone. "I and I could live alone in the world, you could do nothing wrong. Nothing!"

She smiled at him. "But..."

"That's it! We don't live alone. We live in a small city, crowded with my patients—" He laughed. "More or less crowded," he amended. "But it certainly is crowded with my family. Carrs all over the place! And I know it was hard for you to come in, a stranger, and have to fit yourself into—"

Especially, thought Shelly, when none of that "crowd" did anything to make a place for me. But she didn't speak.

"I know our local society must seem pretty absurd to you at times," Stephen went on in a worried tone. "And for good reasons! But, still, darling, this is your home, and will be—and wouldn't you be happier if you tried to like our parties? You'll never adjust by staying away from luncheons and club meetings—I'm thinking of you! I really am. You'd be happier, I'm sure, if you'd—Oh, Lord! I'm making a hash of this! I wouldn't change a hair on your beautiful head! But, still, I know you'd be happier if..."

"If," she said softly, "I'd stop being Shelly and become—well—let's say, Eleanor Walsh."

The name quivered in the air, as it too frequently quivered on Shelly's nerves.

Now Stephen was frowning. "Are you... Oh, you can't be jealous of Eleanor!"

"Why can't I?"

"Are you?"

"Of course I am."

"There's no need." His underlip jutted stubbornly.

"Maybe not with you," said Shelly quickly. "But with your family, darling—certainly, they like Eleanor, and deplore your choice in wives."

"It never was any of their business," he declared firmly. "Perhaps it was their business, somewhat," her soft voice said gently. "Their sense of family is strong. It's almost that of dynasty. The money, too—we don't mention such things, of course, but the money's there, just the same. The business, and its obligations. And Eleanor—they knew her, they knew what to expect of her. She would have fitted so neatly into their picture."

She turned now to look at Stephen who was leaning against a post of the tester bed, watching her.

"Why didn't you marry Eleanor?" she asked intently.

"I didn't love her."

Shelly waited.

"And I met you."

She sighed, and smiled happily. "Thank you, darling. Stephen—you don't like my pink dress—at least not for today?"

"I like it, Shelly. It's just—" She crossed the room swiftly. "I know," she called back from the distance of her own dressing room. "It isn't a family sort of dress; and this is a family sort of party!"

He followed her to the doorway, and she turned to look at him gravely. Her hair just missed being red, and at times her eyes took on smoky-blue tones. "You must remember, though," she told him seriously, "that your family expects me to look like the night club singer you married, darling." Her gentle voice softened at the wince in his eyes. "In fact, I'm pretty sure they like being shocked all over again whenever they are reminded of what you did."

"Then, by all means," he said gruffly, "wear the slinky dress! Let them be shocked!"

She was out of the pink dress and into one of heavy white silk, only faintly gleaming; its long skirt was billowy, and there was a row of violets tucked into the bodice top—the flowers did wonderful things to her eyes, and as he stooped to kiss her, Stephen approvingly stroked the silky velvet strap upon her shoulder. At his touch, the thought that she must lose him soon—so soon!—stabbed through her. She thrust it resolutely from her mind, turned to select a short coat of pale green, and announced herself as ready.

A busy doctor, he had left his car at the curb in front of her brick house, and now he opened that door without waiting for Harry who, with Dorina, comprised the servant staff of his household. Shelly preceded him down the steps, lifting her full skirts away from the bricks, and paused at the edge of their lawn to let a young woman go past on the pavement.

This girl was tall, her head tied in a scarf against the autumn chill; her dark eyes glowed as she looked at the festive couple spotlighted in the radiance of the lamps beside their front door. Her tongue touched her upper lip, and she smiled a little.

"Good evening!" said Dr. Carr pleasantly, and Shelly bowed.

At the outbreak of World War I he was quartermaster general, but after the capture of Liege, he was made chief of staff to Hindenburg. His powers of leadership reflected his character; brain, heart and will were all enlisted in the service and the honor of his country. After the defeat of the Entente he fled to Sweden, but returned to his homeland on Dec. 20, 1937. He wrote several books, one of which in the English translation, was titled My War Memories. What was his name? (Name at bottom of column)

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

Editor's Note: Every Saturday this veteran Washington correspondent devotes his column to answering readers' questions of general interest on national policies and personalities. Questions may be sent direct to Ray Tucker at 6308 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON — During the war in Indochina," asks A.J.M. of New York City, "have the French armies lost as many men and officers as the American armies lost in Korea during a comparable period of time? I would also like to know if you can give me the total number of casualties, men and officers, suffered by the French army during the entire time that they have been in Indochina."

Answer: Before suggesting that the casualty figures alone do not reflect a true picture of the two countries' efforts and sacrifices, I shall give the figures as furnished to me by the Pentagon and the French Embassy.

CASUALTIES—Our total loss in Korea from June of 1950 until the truce on July 27, 1953, were 30,606 dead, 103,327 wounded and 3,054 missing. The French have no breakdown for a similar period, but their casualties from January, 1950, to October, 1953, were 18,700 killed and 17,200 wounded.

Their total losses in the eight-year conflict have been 32,000 killed and 34,000 wounded. They also had some native losses, but they were negligible. Each year the French lose as many officers as they graduate from St. Cyr, their West Point—350.

KOREAN TOTAL — In Korea we had the assistance of 15 members of the United Nations and the natives. It is estimated that Korean casualties of all kinds exceeded 400,000. Our allies, especially the British, Turks and Greeks, suffered casualties of approximately 25,000.

However, it must be kept in mind that we have a population of 160 million as against only 44 million for France. Our material resources are infinitely greater. Korea is distant enough, not so far away as Indochina is from France. Difficult as is the Korean terrain, Southeast Asia's is more arduous for military warfare.

U. S. AID—In various kinds of military and economic aid, we have given France about $4 billion in the last six years. But they have spent more than half of that amount in financing the Indochina conflict. We are now contributing about $800 million annually for military support in that area.

Finally, as Washington admits off the record, the defense of Indochina is far more important than resisting a Communist advance in Korea. If Indochina falls to the Chinese and Russian Reds, our whole defense position in the Pacific will be outflanked. India, Burma, Thailand and Eastern Pakistan might become satellite states. Indochina would be a hostile dagger pointed at Japan, Okinawa, Indonesia, Australia and New Zealand.

I would not be surprised, should worse come to worst, if we dispatched troops, heavy equipment, planes and other military reinforcements in order to throw the Communists back into China. In view of such a grave crisis, any argument over comparative French and American losses becomes futile and disruptive.

FACT-FINDING—I have had many requests as to how readers may obtain copies of the Taft-Hartley Act. Oddly, they have come from people who say that they are members of AFL and CIO unions. They explain that they have heard their bosses denounce the statute as a "slave labor law," but they have never read it themselves. Now, it appears, they prefer to do a bit of fact-finding.

Members of Congress, especially those representing the applicant's own state or district, should forward copies, if asked. Too often, however, they neglect their constituents' mail, although it is perilous to do so. But if they do not respond, send your request with 25 cents—money order, check or cash, not stamps — to the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C.

BARKLEY—"Is it true that the venerable Alben W. Barkley is going to run for the Senate?" inquires F. T. of Lexington, Ky.

Answer: I understand that it is. After all, he is younger than Churchill.

Sunday evening calls for a light supper in many homes. Here's a Pork-Orange salad that makes excellent use of roast pork left from dinner. Combine 3 cups cooked pork with 1 1/2 cups diced celery. Blend 3/4 cup of mayonnaise with 2 tablespoons of orange juice and 1 tablespoon of grated orange rind. Mix lightly and combine with pork and celery. Arrange on lettuce and dust with additional orange rind.

Cream to be used for whipping.

Nation's Top 5 Teams Due For Contests

NEW YORK (AP)—Five of the nation's highest ranking college basketball teams swing into action tonight with winning streaks totaling 55 games, and they'll be surprised if the streaks don't add up to 60 when all the scores are in.

Kentucky, the nation's No. 1 team in the Associated Press poll for weeks, takes a 17-0 mark against Mississippi on the Wildcats home court, where they haven't lost in more than a decade.

Oklahoma A & M also goes to work with 17 straight, dating back to a December loss to Minnesota, and the Aggies figure to make it 18 against Oklahoma. A & M ranked fourth in the country, whipped the Sooners 65-48 earlier in the season.

La Salle, No. 7 team, also hasn't lost since December and their winning streak should reach an even dozen tonight against Temple, a team the Explorers whipped 77-53 a few weeks ago.

Indiana is another team which hasn't lost this year—meaning 1954, and the third-ranked Hoosiers will have a sellout crowd on hand in the Northwestern field house as they go for their tenth straight.

Western Kentucky, No. 5 team, is the other top ranked in action. The Hilltoppers basted the longest winning streak in the country, 21 games, until being upset by Eastern Kentucky last week.

For the first time in 15 years, Gallipolis High School won the Southeastern Ohio Athletic League basketball title last night, defeating Logan 75-41. It was Gallipolis' 13th straight league victory.

Sport Briefs

By The Associated Press

Ford Konno, Ohio State swimming star, bettered the world record in the 220-yard freestyle yesterday as Ohio State defeated Indiana 65-28. Konno's time was 2:04.8. The record of 2:05.5 was set by John Marshall of Yale in 1950.

The American Legion's state bowling tournament, scheduled in Canton starting Feb. 20, has broken all entry and prize records, Adj. Joseph S. Deuschle says.

Frank Cumiskey has been named offensive line coach of the Baltimore Colts of the National Football League. He has been doubling as a scout and advisory coach for professional and collegiate teams in the Midwest.

The St. Louis Cardinals' advance spring training camp is open today and their 1954 salary worries are pretty much of a closed question. At about the time a squad of 75 rookies began limbering up at Deland, Fla., star second baseman Red Schoendienst and Ray Jablonski, rookie third baseman of 1953, reached for pens to sign new contracts.

The regional 36-hole qualifier for the National Open Golf Championships will be held June 7 at Cleveland's Canterbury and Shaker Heights Country Clubs.

Jesse Turner will hold a slight edge in odds when he and Garth Fauter climb into the ring tonight for their nationally televised middleweight bout in Salt Lake City Fairgrounds Coliseum. The 10-round scrap, scheduled to begin at 9 p. m. EST, will be carried by the ABC television network.

Ohio State, with a 2-7 record, takes on the University of Michigan in a Big Ten basketball game in Columbus tonight in what is billed as a desperate attempt by the Bucks to keep out of the conference cellar.

New Notre Dame Line Coach Named

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—With the naming of veteran player Bill Fischer as line coach, Notre Dame's football coaching staff neared completion today.

New Head Coach Terry Brennan now needs appoint only one more varsity assistant, a "B" team coach and a freshman coach.

Brennan announced selection of Fischer yesterday. The 240-pound Bill, 26, had no previous coaching experience but played four collegiate seasons with Notre Dame and the last five years with the Chicago professional Cardinals.

Luxembourger Racer Facing New Plot

NEW YORK (AP)—Fred Wilt and Len Truex are plotting a new strategy against Josy Barthel in the New York Athletic Club games in Madison Square Garden tonight.

Three times they've tried to beat Josy in the big indoor meets and three times the little Olympic 1,500-meter champion from Luxembourg, has trotted home ahead of them. Now they figure if they make him run in the early stages in the race, maybe they'll wear him out at the end.

Michigan State Relays Awaited

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A fast field packed with the top track stars of the Midwest assembled today for the 32nd annual Michigan State Relays.

Defending champions are back in 14 of the 18 events.

Top among the names is Wes Santee of Kansas, a miler many hope eventually will get down to the four-minute mark.

Some Wives Buy Their Husbands A Gold Fish To Keep Him Happy

NEW YORK (AP)—Some husbands get restless in the home after dinner.

Few men ever drown on a bowling alley or are shot to death accidentally by someone who mistook them for a deer.

The best thing about bowling is that it gets a husband out of the house one night a week, and enables him to satisfy a man's normal desire to destroy things. They show him a shining alley with 10 bright wooden pins in perfect pattern at the end. They hand him his bowling ball and say, "See if you can smash 'em all down, big fellow."

For the rest of the evening he wears himself out crashing the ball into the pins, destroying the too-perfect pattern, sending them er than either hunting or fishing. Some wives pacify their husbands by buying him a goldfish to watch. Whenever he starts ranting and roaring after being fed his evening meal, the wife tells him something, "Now you're just working yourself into an uproar over nothing. There, there. Why don't you run over like a good little husband and watch your pretty goldfish for a while."

The trouble with goldfish watching as a pastime is it either takes too much of a hold on a man or else he quickly loses interest in it.

If goldfish watching gets a real grip on a husband, it can be worse than drinking or gambling. The relaxation becomes a vice. The victim loses interest in his wife, his children, and his job as he becomes more and more absorbed in watching his goldfish.

Don't we all know husbands who began goldfish watching innocently enough, then began demanding fish food to eat, just like their finny pet, and later began secretly coming down to the goldfish bowl in the dead of night, carrying a candle so they could watch it some more? The only sure way for a wife to break up a situation like this is to swallow the goldfish herself and blame it on the cat.

Other husbands, on the other hand, are simply made more nervous and exasperated than ever by watching a goldfish. They often get the idea the goldfish is beginning to witch it.

"What is that gilded baby whale of yours trying to find out about men?" they ask their wife. "Everywhere I go in the room it follows me with that cunning, fishy look. Is this a home we live in or an aquarium?"

My theory is that a wife had better forget all about goldfish watching, buy her husband a bowling ball, and get him to join the nearest bowling league.

Bowling has a number of advantages over goldfish watching as a way of calming down husbands. It is also cheaper and safe.

3 Hoosiers Named To All-Star Team

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Leonard, Charley Kraak and Dick Farley, three stars of Indiana's defending National Collegiate basketball champions, were the first selections today for the West squad for the eighth annual East-West college basketball game in Madison Square Garden March 27.

The trio helped Indiana win the NCAA title last year and are mainstays of the current Hoosier team, which is leading the Big Ten race and is ranked third in the U. S.

All-America Cliff Hagan, Frank Ramsey and Lou Tsiropoulos, Kentucky's potent threesome, are the only players picked so far for the East team.

Edstrom Named Chairman Of District 1954 Heart Fund Drive

Campaign Set For All-Out Local Efforts

Mayor Asks Strong Backing In Battle Against Killer

Building up power for a sustained drive here through the closing weeks of February, the 1954 Heart Fund Campaign in Pickaway County began to roll under full steam Saturday with the appointment of a local chairman and official endorsement by the mayor of Circleville.

Dr. R. Kissane, president of the Central Ohio Heart Association, announced the appointment of Wes Edstrom to lead Pickaway County's share of the annual nationwide drive for funds. Simultaneously, Mayor Robert Hedges issued a call for full community support and urged generous contributions.

Heart ailments claimed more lives in Pickaway County last year, by a wide margin, than any other cause.

In accepting the chairmanship, Edstrom said:

"Funds subscribed by the people of Pickaway County in this campaign will be used to fight diseases of the heart and blood vessels, both locally and nationally.

"THESE DISEASES take a greater toll of human lives than all others combined, a fact which underscores the importance of a concerted effort to combat them through medical research, professional and public education and community programs.

"This community has never failed a worthy cause, and I am confident that its people will again respond generously to the 'Help Your Heart—Help Your Heart' appeal."

The Central Ohio campaign will be staged in conjunction with the national campaign by the American Heart Association, the only national voluntary health agency working exclusively in the field of heart and blood vessel diseases. Funds from Pickaway County help to support 15 separate heart research projects in Central Ohio and to carry on an educational program for physicians and the public.

Other leaders in the Pickaway Campaign are Mrs. Robert E. Armstrong, who will handle the letters which will go out to over 6,000 people in the county, and Monte Lambert, who will handle the plastic heart container distribution.

Mayor Hedges also pointed out that diseases of the heart and circulation are the leading causes of death and disability in this area, as well as throughout the United States.

He said, "The 1954 Heart Fund provides public spirited citizens with an opportunity to assume their rightful responsibility in combatting these diseases which are such a serious social and economic burden."

He added that the Heart Fund will help provide a solution to the national problem of heart disease if it receives "the fullest cooperation of the people, science, government and health and social agencies."

Solons OK Hiring Of Mex Laborers

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Agriculture Committee yesterday approved legislation authorizing the United States to hire Mexican nationals for farm labor regardless of whether Mexico itself consents to their employment.

The measure was drafted after negotiators representing both the United States and Mexico failed to agree on terms for continuation of the Mexican labor import agreement which has been in effect since 1948.

Don't Forget Martha Washington!

FIRST FIRST LADY A FINE WIFE AND LOVABLE MOTHER

By HENRY C. NICHOLAS
Central Press Correspondent
WASHINGTON—Overshadowed by her famous husband, in the celebration of the birthday of George Washington the nation seldom gives much thought to Martha Washington. To most people she is a plump-faced lady with the full skirts of the period, who played little part in the history of the country.

There could be no greater mistake, according to scholars who have done extensive research on the background of Colonial life along the James and Potomac rivers.

This research reveals Martha as a brave, warm, joyous woman, deeply maternal, and worthy of attention in her own right. It has also revealed an intriguing mystery which may forever remain unsolved.

A woman twice married, who outlived all of her four children, Martha Washington had a remarkable life for a woman of her, or for that matter any other period.

"SHE HAD the rare ability," says Mrs. Blair Niles, who is a fountain of information on both Washingtons, "of making people feel at ease with her and giving them a sense of courage and relaxation."

"It is impossible to estimate the value of her presence to Washington in the dark days of Valley Forge, and the amount of personal courage she displayed in regularly making the long, perilous journeys from Virginia to be with him in army camps as far distant as Boston."

At 16, Martha married Daniel Parke Custis, a member of one of the foremost families of Virginia and a bachelor some 22 years her senior.

Daniel's father, wealthy and crochety old John Custis, looked with suspicion on all women and particularly those who showed any interest in his son and heir. He had long threatened to disown and disinherit Daniel if he did not choose his son's bride.

WHEN DANIEL told his father he had fallen in love with Martha and wished to marry her, John Custis invited her to an elaborate dinner, planning to cross examine, confuse and embarrass her before his son and his guests, as he had with every other eligible young woman in whom Daniel had shown any particular interest.

However, amazingly, 16-year-old Martha promptly conquered the irascible old man. Before dinner, as they were chatting, Martha answered him with a remark so wise that the old man was forced completely to reverse himself in his objections to the marriage of his son.

Unfortunately, no one has recorded what young Martha said. All that is known is that John Custis mellowed from that moment and was a changed man for the remainder of his life.

"WHEN I get to heaven," says Mrs. Blair Niles, "the first thing I'll do is to search out Martha Washington and ask her what she said to John Custis."

"I'm sure there is not a woman in this country who would not like to hear what remark this Colonial teen-age girl said that so completely floored that domineering old man."

When Daniel Custis died, leaving Martha with her two surviving children she was for the first time in her own right a wealthy woman accountable to neither father nor husband. This was an unique position for a woman in those days.

Martha Custis remained a warm, friendly, joyous woman, but showed no particular interest in any of the many suitors who flocked around this most eligible of widows. She loved people, but the only career she wants is to be a mother like her mommy. "Oh, neither of them," she said as if shocked. I knew so little about her heart. "I'm going to marry Jody."

"Who is Jody?" I felt I was getting more lost every moment. "Why Jody is the boy I knew when we lived in Rome. He lives in California now. But I've always been going to marry Jody—ever since I was 2 years old!"

That ended that. Now I'm a little confused myself, but then women in love always did confuse me.

Somehow I felt sure that neither Charles nor Glenn knew about Jody, or were likely to anytime soon. I guess, even at 6, a smart girl has learned always to hold one secret in reserve—or how else would women have managed to puzzle mankind since time began?

Martha Washington and her famous husband.

loved even more the freedom and independence she now possessed. However, when a tall young Virginian colonel came into her life, Martha did not hesitate in giving up the freedom and independence she had valued so highly.

WITH THAT amazing wisdom that had floored old John Custis, she seemed to recognize in this young veteran of the French and Indian wars a man who had not been cut out of the common mould—one with whom she could proudly and happily walk hand in hand through life together.

The whole world knows how wise her choice proved to be. George Washington was a devoted, affectionate husband, a proud father of his adopted children.

As historians delve into old documents they are beginning to recognize more and more that George Washington was fully as wise in choosing his mate as was Martha.

Martha proved a devoted and affectionate wife, fully capable of meeting every emergency as it arose. In a letter to a friend during the dark days of the American Revolution she showed her mettle when she said, "I shudder every time I hear a cannon roar, but I try to keep my fears to myself."

Even At 6, Female Is Puzzling When She Confides About Love

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The last time I saw my 6-year-old goddaughter, Nina, she was in pajamas and bathrobe on her way to bed, her blonde hair brushed long around her face, her blue eyes languid with postponed sleep.

She came running to give me a special good night kiss. Then she asked impulsively, "Hal, can I tell you a secret?"

Climbing in my lap, she put her arms round my neck, and whispered softly: "I'm in love."

She told me this strictly in confidence, but you know how women are. I always figure when they tell you a secret they are 50 per cent hoping you'll spread the word for them, and 75 per cent trying it out for effect—to see whether it is really a worthwhile secret.

Nina caught me off guard. I won't say I was jealous. But I had that half-empty feeling any proud godfather gets when a gal who holds a special niche in his heart suddenly says she is in love and means someone else.

"His name is Charles, and he is wonderful," she said. "He is the best reader in the first grade."

That can be pretty important to a lady at 6, a lady who enjoys nothing more herself than to curl up with a good solid book of nursery rhymes. When I asked Nina if Charles liked her, she went completely feminine.

"Well, he says he doesn't," she said, and both dimples came into view, "but I think he really does."

After Nina had gone to bed, I

Nickel Fare Still In Vogue Up In Maine

Biddeford-Saco Line Proudly Manages To Cling To Old Tariff

NEW YORK (AP)—Got a nickel? Want to go somewhere? You still can—provided you want to travel from Biddeford, Maine, to Saco, Maine. Or even vice versa.

The nickel fare is a memory in most cities. In New York City, for example, transit fares have tripled in the memory of citizens only five years of age—not that these particular citizens care much. But a lot of others do.

Transit companies tell you, and other statistics, too, to support them, that operating costs are way up yonder.

Equipment costs more than in the good old days. Traffic is so dense and so slow that 10 buses today can scarcely do the work that one did a few years ago. Labor gets a lot more pay—and labor has statistics, too, to support its contention that wages had to be higher if it were to go on eating and wearing clothes and sleeping under a non-leaking roof.

But up in Maine, they still can take seriously that crack, "What this country needs is a good five cent nickel."

The Biddeford & Saco Railroad Co. (bus line, 'o you) still operates on a five-cent fare.

"The only one left in the country," is the boast of its president, J. Burton Stride.

It started 67 years ago with two-horse, open-car, four-wheeled conveyances. The Maine state railroad commissioners reported its 63 horses were "well cared for and kindly treated."

In 1891 it changed to electric trams, and in 1939 to modern buses. But all that time it's stayed loyal to the lowly nickel.

The transit line's principle customers along its 20 mile route are textile workers from the plants of Bates, Pepperell and Saco-Lowell. How does the transit line manage to go along on a five-cent fare?

President Stride says his employees have wage scales comparable to those of the larger transport lines. There are 8 regular drivers and 2 mechanics for the 10 buses the company owns. Stride says they enjoy paid vacations, sick leave benefits, paid-up insurance and bonus awards, just like employees of lines that collect higher fares.

The company has the advantage of a centrally located garage. A bus passes it twice during each trip, and that cuts costs of repairs when needed.

Stride gives a lot of credit to the use of modern equipment which keeps operating costs down. And he boasts of countless money and labor saving devices both on the buses and in the office.

The company's overhead is held

Sokolsky's These Days

gument in which neither side convinces the other.

I am not criticizing the field men nor even the Internal Revenue Bureau. The system needs revision if self-employed citizens are to continue to exist. Those who can afford to hire accountants are advised as to best procedure; but no one can really know because it becomes a matter of judgment, not of rule.

Meanwhile, savings become difficult and the self-employed person finds that he is setting nothing aside for a prolonged illness, for his wife and children, should he die. For ten months of the year, he hypnotizes himself into believing that he is doing well. On January 15, he makes his estimate and knows that he is in difficulties; on March 15, he is in trouble. The tax may leave him without sufficient working capital. He is reduced to the proletariat, to being a man who works for another.

This is a serious problem that requires serious attention. It is altering our social system.
